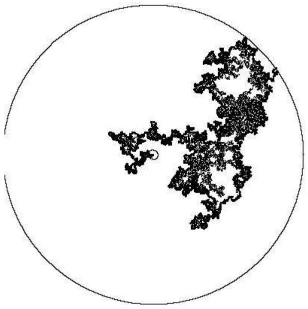
Discrete Mathematics

& Theoretical Computer Science

Volume dedicated to the proceedings of the conference

Discrete Random walks:



Theory and Applications in Combinatorics, Computational Biology, Computer Science, Probability Theory, and Statistical Physics.

Paris, Institut Henri Poincaré, 1-5 September 2003.

Guest editors:
Cyril Banderier and Christian Krattenthaler.

Sponsors: Laboratoire d'Informatique de Paris-Nord, University of Paris Nord, INRIA, GDR-ALP.

Acknowledgements

This conference could not have been hold withtout the financial support of

- the Laboratoire d'Informatique de Paris-Nord,
- the University of Paris 13,
- the INRIA (French National Institute for Research in Computer Science and Control),
- the CNRS project GDR-ALP.

We are indebted to the referees who allowed to improve the quality of the articles presented at the Discrete Random Walks conference. We hope that both authors and attenders enjoyed this conference.

Finally, we would like to thank, for their technical help and/or their friendly support/suggestions:

- Jens Gustedt and Ingrid Falk, respectively, editor-in-chief and webmaster of the review DMTCS, and also Emmanuel Jeandel,
- the scientific committee members,
- Christian Lavault, Vlady Ravelomanana (organizing committee members),
- Jacqueline Vauzeilles and Christophe Fouqueré, respectively previous and actual deans of the Laboratoire d'Informatique de Paris-Nord.
- Brigitte Guéveneux (secretary of the LIPN), and the Agence comptable of the University of Paris 13,
- the Inria direction of European and International relations, the Inria colloque service and the Inria printing office,
- Isabelle Duc and the other people from the Institut Henri Poincaré,
- Virginie Collette (Algorithms Project secretary),
- Philippe Flajolet and Christiane Frougny.

The editors:
Cyril Banderier and Christian Krattenthaler.
